iEnergizer, Austin, TX
Support Specialist, 2011

Previously, I've worked in various positions relating to client services and marketing endeavors. In the early years of my career I gained valuable skills relating to client communication and the organization and administration of a variety of team based tasks in both small and large organizations. I also learned how to leverage many organizational, data management, and analytical software tools.

Education

General Assembly, New York, NY
Web Development Immersive, 2015

University of Texas, Austin, TX
BA English Literature, 2011

My university time saw me pursue my passion for storytelling, studying literature and journalism, as well as working on the school paper. Recently I attended courses in web development, to shape the Internet, the storytelling and publishing platform of the future.
